LAW CENTER TO HOLD FIRST WORKSHOP

The Center for Law and the Deaf will hold a Law School Orientation Workshop at Gallaudet on November 8 and 9. This is the first workshop planned by the newly established Center and is aimed at interesting deaf undergraduate students in attending law school.

Intensive preparation sessions for the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) will be conducted, and students will be encouraged to attend the National Law Center at George Washington University where interpreting and tutorial services will be provided for hearing impaired students if needed. The Center for Law and the Deaf is a cooperative project between George Washington University and Gallaudet College.

There are many career opportunities for deaf people in the legal profession, and students attending the workshop will discover many ways they can utilize legal training.

The campus community is invited to learn more about the new Center as well as have an opportunity to discuss the legal needs of the deaf community on November 12, at 8 p.m. in Krug Hall. Glenn Goldberg, executive director, and Sy. DuBow, the legal director, will be giving the presentation.

SIGN LANGUAGE TEACHERS TO MEET

A number of workshops for teachers of sign language have been conducted by the College's Sign Language Programs over the past four years, culminating in a Pilot Certification Program last spring. An annual workshop will now be offered concentrating on one specific area of teaching.

This year's workshop will assist participants in developing and executing a lesson plan at different levels. The workshop will be held on November 14 and 15. The fee is $20. Deadline for registration is November 5.

MESSAGE WHEEL MOVED

The TV Message Wheel, which has been located in the Office of Alumni and Public Relations, has been moved to the Media Room of the Edward Miner Gallaudet Library. The Library will now have access to an additional closed circuit channel when the wheel is not in use.

If you have a message, please contact Karen Brickett at 785(voice) or 576(TTY).

COLLOQUIUM CHANGES FORMAT

The Graduate School Colloquium Committee has announced a change in format for this year's lecture series. Each lecture program will include an hour long presentation in Hall Memorial Building to be followed by an informal question and answer period in the Thornberry Hearing and Speech Center.

This year, more attention will be given to discovering what is currently happening within different units on campus. The first Colloquium speaker will be Ray Trybus on November 7, at 2 p.m. in HMB 309. Ray will discuss activities in the Office of Demographic Studies.
